

ANGELINA JOLIE'S FAMILY CONNECTIONS

Parents are the most important people in your life Angelina. That is obvious when you are a baby and you make it very obvious when you are a toddler. But it goes on being true at school and with friends. In fact, whether you like it or not, they go on being the most important people in your life for a long time. Their importance is transferred to marriage partners and the unresolved problems you have with your parents then become issues in relationships.

Here you are given information about your relationship with them, to help you untangle your parental conditioning and see them as human beings, rather than powerful gods and goddesses. The effect they have on you as an adult; how they influence your choice of marriage partner; and your parenting skills. It is your guide to the opportunities and obstacles you meet in experiencing them as care-givers and authority figures and your response to that. How they support your character and the limitations they place on you, are shown here.

There are three sections

1] GENERAL INFLUENCE OF PARENTS

2] RELATIONSHIP WITH YOUR MOTHER

3] RELATIONSHIP WITH YOUR FATHER

In some cases the parental roles are reversed and what is said about your mother will apply to father and vice versa.

GENERAL INFLUENCE OF YOUR PARENTS

The general strength and tone of your relationship with them is described now; the dominant parent is indicated; and how you respond to the type of relationship you had with them. Relationships with your partners today are also described.

Saturn more aspects than Moon

Your father appears to have been the more dominant parent and has the strongest influence upon you. Therefore, you model yourself upon him. Your ideas of social position, ambitions, professional way of behaving, views, likes and dislikes, etc come from him. Being a provider and professional seems more important than being a caring mother. As a woman the pressure of society may make you uncomfortable with this.

Moon negative and Saturn negative

Your parents were not on your wavelength. You may have found it difficult to relate positively to them, because, you felt unwanted or a nuisance. Your parents were too unhappy to consider you. They may have been dysfunctional. They saw you as a difficult child because you disagreed with them. You wanted them to notice your needs and they ignored them, which created conflict and tension between you. Therefore, you were difficult with them. You challenged their parenting skills. Maybe you mirrored the discontent of their relationship. Generally, you felt neglected by your mother and that your father was too hard on you. Today this happens within your family.

When partners do not do what you want, you whine and grizzle. If they continue to ignore you, you withdraw emotionally becoming moody and sullen. Then you have got a problem. Anybody who felt unloved or unwanted as a child, like you, develops anti-social conduct that sabotages success. How are you as a parent with your children? You need to repair the damage they have inflicted upon you. Outside help, may be beneficial for you.

Sun soft aspect to Moon

As a woman you are essentially at ease with yourself because you had a good relationship with your parents. You felt they liked and supported you. As parents you love them. Whatever happens you trust them. Today you experience this with men. Return that trust and you will have warm and loving relationships. Although you may fight them and rebel that is natural part of developing your own identity - it is not malice. Their acceptance allows you to see and experience life positively.

YOUR RELATIONSHIP WITH YOUR MOTHER

From birth she was the most important person in your life. To you she was the world, the universe, and everything. The impact that she had on you as a baby was immense and is the most important and powerful thing that will ever happen to you. The closest thing you come to that today is falling in love. Her job was to care, nurture and protect you till you were secure enough and able to look after yourself. This influence permeates your whole life and has set up your expectations of life now, and especially of how to be a woman and mother. When children come into a woman's life, she reverts to following the lesson learnt from her own mother. Your expectations and experience of her are described here.

No planets in 4th house

A traditional mother is not shown. You probably grow out of the cuddly baby stage quite quickly and developed independence early. This may be contradicted as you read on. Generally though, you are not clingy and are able to live your life without your mother's full approval. The relationship between you and her matured quickly, which may have suited your parents. With partners today and your family you are probably casual and allow them space to be themselves.

Taurus on cusp of 4th house

Your mother was stable and secure in her relationship with you and your father who was passionate and politically powerful. Therefore, you felt safe when she had money or a nice home and she gave you money. You need a mother and family who are financially secure.

MAJOR INFLUENCE UPON YOUR MOTHER-DAUGHTER RELATIONSHIP

The circumstances of your life that shape and change the ideal relationship with your mother and how that influences your relationship with women is indicated here. The daily matters that force her to be different and be less than the perfect mother that daughter's demand and your reaction to these circumstances.

Moon in Virgo

A fussy and picky mother, she showed little warmth towards you. She expected you to be perfect - which is unrealistic. Your mother got on with her work and you were expected to help out. A working relationship, if she was helpful you were happy to do your chores. Her neatness and need to be exact, and your need to have a perfect mother influence your relationship with men. You are easily embarrassed by her dress and presentation. This applies to the people in your life today - no scruffs. They may feel the same about you. You were particular about your food and clothing from a very early age and were difficult to please. In later years you may describe her similarly. You want a husband and children who are faultless and if they are not you disparage them - certainly make them feel inferior. The reverse could apply also. Angelina you need routine to feel secure - partners must give this. You saw your mother as a working practical woman and you are the same. Mothering is a job to you.

Moon in 7th house

The social circumstances of her daily life affected your relationship with her. Your mother's attitudes towards your father affected her mothering. Sometimes you thought your father was more important than you.

A charming and delightful mother she enchanted you and you loved her beauty taste and style. Today, you look for a similar man. Her pleasing nature, need for harmony and your need to please influences your relationship with men. Your relationship is based on being pleasant and nice with each other. You love beautiful people. Generally she does not want you upsetting her by being crude or unpleasant. Angelina you try hard to please and be liked by her. You cannot bear it if she did not. Today, you are the same with your husband and children. Therefore, you often negate your needs just to keep them happy.

You repress any anger that you have towards them because of its unpleasantness and their response to that. Your need for mother's approval goes as far as letting her choose your husband. If she does not like something you will not either. So you need to be careful in how she influences your decisions especially about men.

GIFTS OR OBSTACLES IN YOUR RELATIONSHIP WITH YOUR MOTHER

The positive and nurturing aspects of the relationship between you and your mother that led to a positive bond are shown now. Here also are the frustrations that you experienced with her that threaten this bond. Both of these aspects combine to alter and change what has been said so far. They create the complexity that is your relationship with one another.

GIFTS: The relationship is good, and you accept each other at the deepest level.

OBSTACLE: Communication breakdown - neither of you really listened to what the other was saying. Therefore, misunderstandings and mix-ups occurred. Your mother had a different time-clock to you. Your clocks were out of sync. You were sleepy when she was wide awake; hungry when she was full, etc. Then, you and your mother nagged each other. She needed to accept this difference; it was unnatural to try and make you any other way. But she tried, now you are out of phase with the men you meet and the problem continues. What you can do today, is talk about what is happening and negotiate a common ground. Always, always listen to men and let them know you have heard them.

OBSTACLE: She spoilt and indulged you. You easily got what you wanted from her by being charming. Mind you it worked the other way; she can get you to please her by playing on your fear of being disliked. You cannot bear it if she dislikes you and would do almost anything to please her. Both of you compromised yourselves for each other. Now, this continues with your husband. At its worst, your values clashed and you did not like each other's' taste or style.

SUMMARY OF YOUR RELATIONSHIP WITH YOUR MOTHER

Aspects to the Moon mostly difficult

You are an insecure woman and mother. From birth you have never totally felt comfortable with your mother. This could be for a number of reasons - a temporary separation at birth that was traumatic - or your mother had emotional problems that make it difficult for her to respond naturally to you. Whatever you experience many conflicting feelings and have difficulties expressing them to her in a pleasing way. You are unsure of how she will respond. Therefore, you may stay quiet and say nothing to people today, or whine and complain to remind them that you haven't been taken care of the way you want.

Your children and family find you moody and sullen, the sort of woman who is difficult because you play on people's guilt - that they have not got it right. Stay out of this and work hard at satisfying your own needs and learn to express your feelings. You will get angry with people, which is natural, if it persists seek professional help.

-ooOoo-

FATHER-DAUGHTER RELATIONSHIP

Traditionally fathers play a different role from mothers in their children's life. They are the provider and protector in the family. This role distances fathers from their children initially because it becomes their responsibility to earn or catch the food, etc. While they are doing that, a young baby's dependency, and relationship with their mother strengthens. At this point men can feel left out and neglected, as all they seem to be is the bread winner and get little in return, which can result in male resentment. At this point they can choose to have a relationship with their child or not. In the past fathers mostly became absent fathers - now this is changing. Your father's job was to support your mother through the first two years of your life. So you could develop a healthy dependency upon him and then establish a relationship with him around, age two. He is the second most important person in your life, whether you like him or not.

Psychologically he introduced you to the outside world to people beyond your domestic environment. Your relationship with him strengthened as you became less dependent upon your mother. Traditionally fathers go to work, while mother and baby remain at home. The coming and going to work is fascinating to a child and they become intensely interested in fathers through this. Who is that distant figure in my life? Where does he go? Who are these people he brings home? Where is he taking me? These are all the primitive questions you asked yourself about him. He is your social role model and the person whose job it was to take you out into the big wide world - your protector. Your social aspirations and career ambition generally come from your relationship with him. Now, how you experienced this with him, your attitude towards your father is interpreted and evaluated -read on. How has he shaped your attitudes towards men and your husband. While men marry their mothers women marry their fathers.

***** ATTENTION *****

YOUR RELATIONSHIP WITH HIM IS ONE OF THE TWO MOST DOMINANT ASPECTS OF YOUR PERSONALITY. THE OTHER BEING YOUR PROFESSION.

*****

Mars in 10th or Conjunct Midheaven

At his best he was a courageous man. Angelina you competed with him and replicated his aggressive conduct. You wanted to be like him and be first; he was your main rival.

But you were frightened and held back, becoming more fearful than courageous. You feared the consequences of your actions with him, so you often did what he wanted. This made you angry with him, wanting to assert yourself and take over his job. Today some of this anger is transferred to the men in your life.

He needed to let you challenge and fight with him so you could find your place and test your abilities. Then he has a motivating influence upon you rather than a destructive or disruptive one. Knowing your abilities helps in dealing with authorities today. Otherwise your relationship was one long fight and struggle for authority. Therefore, you could be frustrated and aggressive with him and anyone who is a boss. Do not escalate fights with him now, take time out to cool down. Today you need to do this with your own family. You look for a man who is a bit of dictator.

Aggressive and controlling parental relationship - he may have been too strict with his discipline and physically abusive. If he was, you resent him and resisted him usually in a passive way. Therefore, you challenge and put each other down every chance you get, as a child that was unfair he was bigger and more powerful than you. You may do the same with your children and choose aggressive and violent men as partners. Parenting is not a competition it is about providing, leading and directing. You probably need to learn effective parenting skills.

MAJOR INFLUENCES UPON THE RELATIONSHIP WITH YOUR FATHER

Here are the day to day circumstances of life that challenge, change and control the relationship that you had with your father. The information here, adapts what has been written so far.

Saturn in Cancer

He was an emotional and sensitive father, more of a mother to you Angelina. Probably he was a confused man, as a result you are also confused. You were tough on your father wanting him to be a perfect father. Because of a very early rejection you experienced, you decided that he did not measure up and you gave him a hard time, by rejecting him in some way, with him you are cold and distant and emotionally withdrawn - today this is how you behave with your family.

It's possible you may have been frightened of him or disappointed that his work took him away. Preferring your mother, then he may have called you a mummy's boy and you felt further hurt. In some way he was not available to you and your mother played his role of protector. His childhood or feeling difficulties caused problems with his fathering, the classic absent father, although you may be unaware of this. You want a happy family and for you that is just not possible with your original parents.

You need to talk to him on a feeling level that is hard. If you let him know how you feel, you can change how you relate to him. You are very sensitive to rejection so you avoid getting close in case that happens.

This happens with men in your life. You made him feel guilty and played on his feelings of inadequacy. You needed to be reassured that he did care for you, to help you with your life today, although your coldness made that difficult for him. You need plenty of touch and time alone at home with your own family. Now, you may be reluctant to become a mother.

Saturn in 7th

As a father you wanted him to be socially acceptable. To you he was more like a companion than an authoritative father. You liked him a lot and valued what he stood for, wanting to please him. He may have disappointed you by ignoring your efforts to make him happy. If he did, you felt unloved and became cold and withdrawn. Today this will affect your marriage. To him you were mostly a lovable child wanting to be with him.

You wanted to follow in his footsteps. You may have followed him everywhere as you wanted to be his companion. Generally, you both were good company and could share many things together. Since you are easy to be with, he did not mind taking you to work with him, etc. Nothing made you happier and you loved him for it. You look for a father figure in your partners - someone like him. At its best you and he have a pleasant relationship.

GIFTS IN YOUR FATHER-DAUGHTER RELATIONSHIP - AND ITS PROBLEMS

Shown here is what makes the relationship between you work. The obstacles that push you apart and challenge your love for each other are also shown now. The complexity created by both these factors makes your relationship unique. The relationship with "the father" is always the most challenging, because you are mostly secure by the time you establish that relationship. Therefore, you are more sure of yourself and challenge his authority.

***** ATTENTION *****

This was either an excessively strict relationship or a lackadaisical one. You did not listen to each other, believing that you were right. He may have laid the law down. This made for a distant and argumentative relationship. You refuse to listen to each other's ideas or learn from one another. This pushes you apart, which is a shame because you are both similar and if you only took the time to understand one another you would get on. You refuse to see each other's point of view - acting righteous. The result is neither of you believed or respected the other.

Sometimes, you saw your father as too inconsistent or lazy so you said "why should I bother?" You thought he neglected you by not pushing for a good education.

*****

SUMMARY FATHER-DAUGHTER RELATIONSHIP

Saturn four aspects or more

This is a powerful and complex relationship. You influenced him on many levels, and he changed and challenged your life in many different ways - reinforcing your strengths and exposing your limitations. Your relationship with him Angelina dominates your life - you needed him to take you seriously. Wanting him to pay special attention to you - he probably could not avoid it. Because most of the time, you challenged his authority and/or regularly sought his approval. You copied and express many of his characteristics, ambitions and social aspirations - styling your life on his. He had a powerful influence upon your expectation of men. Today you are either the dominant one in your relationship or chose a powerful male to be your partner.

Saturn aspects mostly difficult

As you have already know you had a very tough relationship with your father Angelina. He continually reprimanded you, or ignored you, or simply was not available. You feel that he did not live up to your expectations of what a father should be, and you may have the impression that he was disappointed in you as a daughter. As a result, today you have a negative attitude towards men and being a parent. Both of you need to work this out or otherwise you drive each other away, which could result in there being very little love lost between you and possibility that you never marry or chose a difficult man as your partner.

-ooOoo-