In this section we see if you made it out alive or are still stuck there emotionally. Read this section with caution as some aspects may be quite explicit about your social and sexual life - you may not manifest all of this - DO NOT OVER REACT.

There are 2 parts:

1] RELATIONSHIPS AND CLOSE FRIENDS - this describes what you look for in a partner and your closest friends. How you experience innocent attachments. This is the attraction principle.

2] CASUAL ACQUAINTANCES AND YOUR PEER GROUP - Here friendship and the type of groups that you mix with are shown.

RELATIONSHIPS AND CLOSE FRIENDS

As a child you formed beautifully innocent and loving relationships with boys from about age two till about six or seven then they stop. At eleven or twelve they began again but in a much more awkward and self-conscious manner and you mostly have not lost interest since. The boys are now full grown men. Here we describe the innocent way you are attracted to men and what you look for in a husband Angelina, or a partner.

Moon in 7th or conjunct Descendent

You are a natural charmer. From birth you seek closeness with men and are a very enchanting and social woman. Your mother interferes with your relationships and she was your first love, therefore, you may be surprised by her feelings of rejection when you get serious with boys.

You need marriage and a social life to feel emotionally secure. You need to be liked and find it easy to get men to like you. Therefore, you have charm, grace, good taste and style, and are diplomatic - partners cannot help fall for your charms. Marriage is important to you and you often fall in love. You do not feel emotionally complete until you have a husband. The section on "Feeling" will tell you more about your relationship skills. You are attracted to men who are mother figures, men who will take care of you and are sensitive - you may marry early for security and have a family when young.

Being insecure emotionally, you have problems with relationships. You become dependent upon them and can do little without their approval. For you partners are mother figures who you want to take care of you. Although, it could be the other way and you treat them as a child. This creates dependent relationships and may indicate an early pregnancy. You will need to learn how to develop a sharing relationship rather than have one based on dependency.

Saturn in 7th or conjunct Descendent

Men and relationships are the most sensitive areas of your life and the most difficult for you personally. Here you feel limited and restricted, your fear of being rejected or disliked paralyses you so much that you do not try to date or form many close friendships, sometimes you project depression.

In love you are conservative and sparing with your emotions. Only time and experience will put this right for you. You may not have a partner till your late teens, such is the extent of your shyness. Then it is with an older man. You are attracted to men who are older and wiser, ones who have some authority and power. Men who remind you of your father are attractive, the type who can manage you and boss you around. On the other hand you may like to be boss. To cover up your feelings of being unlovable you are cold and aloof socially.

You are very practical and realistic about marriage it is more political than a love affair. Since you are calculating and choose men who are going to be successful as your partner and help your social status. You may appear as a social climber. Marriage for you Angelina will probably not happen till your late twenties.

This is a problem area. Your fear of rejection is so strong that you may avoid relationships altogether or chose men who are pessimistic and destructive and you end up very hurt. Becoming negative and depressed you are difficult to be around and support positively. People may not be able to help you because you enclose yourself within a shell of isolation and loneliness. Men probably have the best chance of getting through to you. Relationship skills are something that you need to learn - your parents probably had a dysfunctional relationship. Seeking some form of advice would be beneficial for you.
